In the hope of blacking some of the large, trees between himself and the Confederate which the same first spring to the left. ates: but his movement was not o ares, but the movement was not quite quick enough as a he received two balls in the lower left leg which felled him him to the ground. The Confederates then came up, and at very close range inflicted the remainder of the wounds. As many as tup, and at very cices range injected the remainder of the wounds. As imany as twenty, rough is must have been fired at him. Whe least shot penetrated his left breast, rendering him inconscious, and was fired in a real close of boximity that the powder from the muzic of the gun-hunel the clothing. He lay senseless until after surrise the following morning.

With returning consciousness came indescribable suffering from pain and thirst. After several ineffect if attempts to get upon his knees to began to caw, toward the two dead, main in the lope of securing water from the for a refers, but he found neither cante in hor water. Remember is the two dead in 1 in the tops of securing water from t. eff ca teems but he found neither cante in for water. Remembering to have creased a brook, while under guard just previous to the shooting, he began again to rawl to the rear on his right slice, his left was penforated with hole. Only a few fest at a inne could the trave, as his wounds began to theed afresh. The whole of the bay into early evening was consumed. Statong the distance was not over forty rods. At length he reached the brook. After drinking andresting, he found he cound get upon his knees, but not upon his feety for the hope of the lower left leg had been spintered.

Rick pretends to be so zealous a guardian of the public funds we wonder that it dees not occur to him to strike his own pension off the rolls, especially as he is. down as a "physical wreck" while able to draw a salary of $5,000 a year.

The duty of the authorities is plain. Such uprisings as that at Chicago should be crossed with a strong arm, and the sternest justice should be enforced against their promoters, who are the enemies of the American Republic and of all clitzens without distinction. New York World.

And yet it was only a few days since that the World expressed the opinion that the whorld expressed the opinion that the authorities should take no! notice the communistic utterances of Herr Most. It is better to prevent these outbreaks by, p acting the hand of the line upon the conspirators who go about among the people inciting them to deeds of violence, than it is lo vinit until the misklute! is done and them clamor. For the punishment of the guilty parties. The Chicago rot is the outcome of the mistaken let-alone policy.

"A EXT DOOR," by Clara Louise Burnham is the atest and best work of its author. The scene of the novel is Boston, the plot is ingenious, and the characters unteresting. The story is on a high plane, far above the average society novel. It is a womanly book, a bright, fresh and pleasing love story with plenty of life and incident. We heartly recommend the book as one that cannot fall to please. Published by licks or & Co. Price $1.50. JOHN BODEWIN'S TESTIMONY, by Mary Hallock Foote is a thoroughly interesting story. The seems a laid in the mining region of the West. Bodewin is a min ug expert and this testimony is of vital important. portance in a pending law sait. His conviction as to the justice of the claim of one of the lart es to the suit is positive, but he is deterred from appearing as a witness by reason of his sense of obligation to the other party who has previous to this time befriended a sister of Bodewin, who had If the Demo rats only had the honesty cont a ted an unfortunate marriage for Great Damage and coss of Life in Missouri and Kansas.

FORT SCOTT, Mo., May 7. One of the most severe storms of the season passed over this city yesterday at noon. The rain ponced down in torrents. About 2 o'clock Lamb's ice dam broke, away and, an immense body of water, untiling with the already swollen Brick Run, rushed down the yalley. A house occupied by Sarnh Brown, a widow, was struck by the torrent and swept about 100 yards down the stream where it lodged among the treed. Mrs. Brown and four of her children were in that the time and the water rose rapidly around it to the depth of sevaral feet. The mother held her sixten months' old infant in her arms above water leaving hot older children to care, for themselves. She suddenly noticed that her five year old boy was drowned before, ald could reach it. The remainder of the family, were rescued. The damage in this city and vicinity resulting from the flood will amount to several thousand dollars.

The Signalman's Story.

(Concluded.)

Miss Cleabyra offered her, hand—there was such a queer thrill in ray, own voins as I touched it, such a recalling; of past days!—and she said a few words expressive of her gratitude. These we're only few; but with her soft voice in my gars, and the sight of her now swimming yes, before one, would have dared death, in her service.

She then threw her same around the Captain's rack, and strove to frame a farewell, but broke down terribly, so that for a few minutes she was hysterical,—and it readed lest she might serveam aloud, and thus give her latter on any concealed watcher. But she reckered herself as cuckty as she had been down, dashed the tears from he eyes, gave one passionate kips, and then defined into the darkness. We were taking about the darkness. We were taken upon more hysterically and it is a such as a book and have been maneess. We were taken upon more hysterically and the gazed After her. "Treet that, I cought in which some healtand in his voice, as he gazed here, walteres for all? know; the world have been manees. We were taken upon more hysterically and the state of the darkness in the foot of the bank. But you must have good eyes."

I kook an early cippertunity of seeing the next have look and the first here watched a few only in the latter with his voice, as he said the strength of the darkness. We were taken upon me his secondary looks and the previous night.

"Yes," he said, with a smile; "I know it was a some and in the darkness, it was it no soiled to have good eyes."

I know the lody, although, it is not a storn and in the darkness, it was it no soiled to have good eyes."

I know the lody, although, it such a storn and in the darkness, it was it no soiled to have good eyes."

I know the hough I had skeet two persons only the previous night.

"Yes," he said, with a smile; "I joined the darkness, it was it no soiled to have good eyes."

I know the darkness, we well as the previous day; and after thanking me the head of the latter of the previous signal that I thought I had sieu two persons zolow the lady, although, in such a storn and in the darkness, it was in possible to be certain. He was a good deal disturbed at hearing this, being evidently at once or two leadings which remain go be to disturbed the hear of the hear of our lateracytics.

He had not been long in my little and we were talking about the best me hod of first concealing him and then, getting faim a way, when I suddenly stopped in my speech and listened at the door.

"What is the matter?" asked Laurenst ten.

"I heard a step of some one walking round the box," I returned, "and I am sire there is a man on the railis. No, one had any business there at this time."

In another instant a low whistle was heard.

"They mean mischiet," I said, "you are negled! These men are following you."

The Captain turned pale, and brust his hand into his breast.

I guessed he had some weapon concluded there, so I exclaimed; "That will not do!—Hele! There is just one chance put on this cont and cap." They were this elect by my mate—"Quick!" I creid, "I can hear them coming!—Now, sit form, and write anything in this book. Don't seem to shrink from—"

A sharp rap at the door interjupted mentaragers—before the Amother was standing on her house and in the standing on her house and in the provided presents.

After a good many years they returned to resign on her house and in the provided presents.

"Bill" traced half round; but the peak of his cap being drawn down over he face, and the collar of his cast being turned up, as was mitural on such a night, he was effectually disguised, especially as his appearance was, as I have described, so completely changed. He, spoke with his pen ha his mouth, and said: "About three hours ago there was a fellow at the gates that I didn't like the look of."

"We have seen our man, or he has been seen, since then," returned the speaker. Then addressing those behind he said: "He may terhiding in those trucks," pointing to some on the other sice of the fine. At that moment a man was really heard to cup from one of the trucks and to hurry along the road. I knew who'll was, fact that it was his duty to see to certain arrangements before the traincame through which would pick them up. The man who was standing apart also heard the noise and called to the others; then, without another word, they all hurried to where the trucks were standing.

"A near chance that," I said, turning to the Captain, but stopped in my speech, from the shock his changed appearance give me. He was deathly pale.

I begin to feel more measy in my new undertaking than I had hitherto been, espicially when I heard another step approaching, and saw that some due bearing a ight was coming to the hut.

I thought is was a second search, and felt that we could scarcely expect to repeat our success. However, it was only charrele independent of search in the cabin, the man at the waste in the man at the eight in the cabin, and now do not good; but they were preciously unctivit, talking to me as if I was a niegor, or a convict, so I sent them to the Pike and Perch"—this was a teer-house sone two makes aft—and so, you know, if any sent's content of the cabin and perch of the trucks of the week had hit effect.
